Smog Is Subject Of Letter

A letter asking the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to consider drafting a smog abatement ordinance has been sent by the City of Carmel, following a report at the last regular meeting of the Carmel Planning Commission by Gladys Keplinger, who has investigated the situation in the Moss Landing area. The letter reads:

"At the last meeting of the City Planning Commission I was directed to call the attention of the Board of Supervisors to the smoke conditions arising at Moss Landing and affecting portions of the county.

"One of the members of the commission reported that smog-like conditions had been observed daily by commuters to Fort Ord and understood that on several occasions the smog had drifted into both Salinas and Watsonville. It was said the smog is caused by industrial plants near Moss Landing, and with the rumor that there is to be enlargement of the holdings there, the commission fears

Meeting Called In Interest Of Elderly People

On Tuesday afternoon, March 6, at 4 o'clock, there will be a meeting of The Carmel Foundation in the Parish Hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church. Anyone interested in the welfare of those persons of advanced years who live in our community is invited to attend and participate in the meeting.

There is a large percentage of elderly persons living here who are from time to time in need of services they cannot render themselves. Recently there have been a number of informal meetings of interested persons to canvas this situation and try to arrive at a few tentative decisions in regard to it. These meetings have resulted in obtaining articles of incorporation for a body which has been named The Carmel Foundation. Its powers and purposes are broad and flexible so it may be of maximum service to those persons of advanced years who are in need of and who desire more or less care and attention, particularly to those who live alone. The area included in the project is also left undefined and unspecified.

This meeting of March 6 is called for the purpose of effecting a working organization under the articles of incorporation and to arrange for the development of a program of activities to be engaged in by The Foundation. There will be no speeches, no solicitation of funds, no assessments of dues and no refreshments.

The sponsors of this meeting hope there will be a large and representative gathering as evidence of comunity interest in this very worthy enterprise. The meeting will begin promptly at 4 o'clock and the business will be carried through as expeditiously as possible.

The Pine Cone salutes the New Group which is having its first exhibition in the Carmel Highlands this week end. Patricia Cunningham, who cut the linoleum block above, tells us that she has employed the techniques of contemporary art, multiple aspect and simultaneous contour. Naturally it's intended to be abstract, but both Pat and the Pine Cone staff are a little dubious about it because it makes sense. You can see a face, and a palette and brushes. Pat was especially worried about the brushes, but we assured her that we weren't aware they were brushes. We had just regarded them as forms until she told us they were brushes, and she felt better about it.

Nonsense aside, we suggest that you take in the New Group show. It's the most interesting thing that has happened around here in quite a while.

—W. C.

New Group's First Exhibit Promises Exciting Variation In Styles, Techniques And Mediums Tomorrow

Most of the canvasses, water-colors, drawings, masks, pieces of sculpture, wire-screen mobiles and ceramic paintings to be exhibited tomorrow when the New Group opens with its first show at the Carmel Highlands residence of Margaret Millard have already been hung, and some are even suspended from the ceiling, but several more are expected to arrive at the last minute.

Altogether, it promises to be an exciting and thoroughly provcocative show. Never before on the Monterey Peninsula have the work of so many artists with such varied techniques, approaches and styles been gathered together in one exhibit. Abstractionists next to landscape painters, modern sculpture next to flower-paintings, and drawings in the classic manner next to naive primitives.

The list of the artists in itself gives one a vivid idea of the immense variation of approach. What greater contrast could one find than between the work of Sam Colburn, for instance, and Elwood Graham; or of Richard Lofton and Henry Miller; or of Jean Kellog and Harrydick Ross. But the list is infinite. . . .

In addition to those mentioned above, people who attended the gala opening will see drawings and paintings by Sam Harris, Bar-

S.P.C.A. To Ask Increase

The S.P.C.A. will ask for a reconsideration of the amount paid annually by the city at the next regular meeting of the city council which will be held Wednesday night.

The matter is one which has come up before the city from time to time and it has always been agreed that the annual amount paid out to the organization of $1,500 is sufficient.

Monterey pays $1,900 annually, and Pacific Grove $1,200. The S.P.C.A. receives the license fees, but those collected in Carmel are kept by the city.

Members of the S.P.C.A. will attend the meeting and present their reasons for asking for the increase, one of them being the rising costs of operating the unit. They will also bring up the matter of the council's recent request for them to pick up dead dogs and cats.

Council members however are expected to protest any such increase inasmuch as they believe the amount turned over is much more than sufficient to cover the costs of the number of animals picked up here.

King Mederos, one of the directors of the S.P.C.A., gave The Pine Cone figures which show that last year the Animal Shelter showed a profit of $1,103.84, with the total operating revenue amounting to close to $10,000 for 1950. This figure excludes, as well, all donations, gifts and private contributions of all kinds.

Diversity Will Mark Symphony Concert To Be Held Here Mar. 6

By Eben Whittlesey

Diversity between classical, romantic and modern composers, combined with much color and melodic appeal will be found in the program to be performed by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at Sunset Auditorium on March 6, under the leadership of Lorell McCann. The major work on the program will be Franz Schubert's Seventh Symphony, considered his greatest work in this form, comparable in stature with the symphonies of Beethoven.

A rarely heard Mozart concerto for French horn and orchestra, with Steve McCann as soloist, should bring to life the grace, beauty of form and lighthearted charm so characteristic of Mozart. Contemporary music is represented in the works of Eric Coates, Charles Griffiths and Leroy Anderson. None of these works are extreme in their modernism, and may be classed as modern romantic music.

Eric Coates' London Again suite will call to mind another Coates suite played by the orchestra under Mr. McCann last year. This suite includes an energetic march, a contemplative elegy and a gay, tuneful waltz. The music is suggested by scenes from the English countryside and London.

Griffiths' White Peacock is a fine example of the achievement of this brilliant composer who, had

Sporting NOTES

Carmel's Fourth Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament Slated For Tonight And Tomorrow Fremont Favored To Repeat Last Year's Victory

At 4:30 this afternoon the popular Carmel basketball tournament starts rolling with King City, B-Division CCAL champs, tackling the scrappy Gilroy High quintet. Although the Mustangs from King City will be favored over Gilroy, anything can happen in tournament basketball and a Gilroy upset would surprise no one. King City boasts two all-league court artists in Milton and Thompson and the Crain-coached hoopsters are sound in all fundamentals. Bob Hagen's Gilroy crew has been over the bumps in this year's league play but have been coming rapidly in the last few weeks.

Tonight's 6 o'clock attraction could well prove to be the outstanding tilt of the entire tournament, bringing together the colorful Monterey Toreadores and the highly skilled Fremont (Sunnyvale) Indians. Monterey has been the hottest basketball club in these parts during its last few outings and Coach Ed Larsh is confident that his swift aggregation can get over the potent Fremont gang. Fremont won the tournament last year, beating Carmel in the finals, and have been one of the top teams in the Santa Clara Valley League this season. The Indians have a cinch All-Northern California player in Shelley Beebe who is second in the Northern California scoring race. When Monterey's brilliant Segovia matches court savvy with the Fremont flash, Peninsula hoop fans will see the best in high school basketball.

Carmel's unpredictable Padres draw a tough assignment in the 7:30 tussle, meeting Patterson, the scourge of the San Joaquin valley. The Patterson crew wheels off the fast break and is never content with less than 50 points per game. A high-scoring pivot, Jim Ross has scored 26, 29 and 34 points in his last three games.

Pacific Grove and Gustine close out the Friday night's activities at 9 o'clock. Pacific Grove, on a good night, is capable of beating most any opponent and the Breakers appear to be on their game at this time. With two all-league players, Lewis and Shinault, on the squad, Marty Baskins lads could take home the first place gold. Carmel fans are familiar with the Gustine team, having seen them in action on the Carmel court earlier this season. Coach Brian has a well-rounded aggregation with a lot of fight and determination.

Saturday's games will get underway at 10 o'clock in the morning and will run through to the 9:30 finals.

The tournament champions will receive 10 individual trophies for the players and a trophy for the school and a belt buckle for the winning coach. Runner-up team gets a team trophy and silver basketballs for each player. The consolation winner will take home a team trophy. The player judged to be the outstanding player in the tournament will receive an individual trophy.

The Carmel High School hoopsters will have to stop these two Patterson deadeyes if they hope to win tonight's clash with the classy valley quintet. At the left is Jim Ross, who is considered one of the outstanding high school performers in the San Joaquin Valley, bucketing from 25 to 35 points per game. His teammate above is Curt Stewart, a terrific backboard artist and a stalwart on defense.

THROUGH THE HOOP

After dropping a pair to the Boulder Creek Cougars last Friday night, the Carmel High cagers came back strong Tuesday afternoon and won two from the Hollister Haybalers. Andy Locatelli, Boulder Creek's all-league forward, scored 24 points to scuttle the locals. Odd part about Andy's scoring spree was that he was playing with one hand. A broken hand caused one paw to be encased in gobs of plaster. Wonder what this sensational scorer would have done with both hands operating. The Cougars have always been tough for the Padres on the mountain court and last Friday was no exception. . . . Hollister, winners over King City on Monday night, ran into a red hot Padre gang Tuesday afternoon and were two-timed by decisive margins. The fine backboard play of Lanny Doolittle and a tight defensive job against Lanning, Hollister's all-league center, did the job for Carmel. . . . Leavitt's lights had little trouble against an extremely cold Hollister lightweight quintet. While the Padrecitos were hitting from all over the court, the Hayseeds couldn't buy a bucket. . . . Henry Overin, Carmel's talented guard, copped a spot on the B division all-league team, being the only Padre to receive the honor. Butch Laugenour, high-scoring lightweight forward, also repeated on the lightweight squad. Both boys will return for more basketball next season. . . . Good officials make a good basketball game. Many fans have expressed this opinion during the past season. If this is true, this year's Carmel tournament should see nothing but good games. From the San Francisco Cow Palace comes Monk Moyer, one of the most colorful whistle-tooters in the business. Besides knowing the officiating business inside out, Moyer makes his decisions with the proper signals and expressions. Dick Windemuth, top basketball referee in the San Joaquin area, will also return this year. Our top CCAL men, Clem Savoldi and Walt Helm, will round out the whistle brigade. Rest assured all games will be kept under control. . . . The little Serra School kids realized their ambition of the year when they upset the Sunset team in the Youth Center League play. Not given much chance to whip the league-leaders, the little Mission lads took the play away from the favorites and wound up on the long end of a 24-22 score. . . . Be sure to catch the Fremont-Monterey tussle at 6 o'clock tonight. A great duel is in store for fans when Shelley Beebe and Lawrence Segovia tangle. . . . An accolade to Mr. Ed. Mayfield and his Carmel Valley kids who are playing lots of basketball and having plenty of fun. Without a gym, these kids play wherever anyone will give them a game. Fine team cooperation and the unselfish services of Mayfield has paid big dividends in the recreation outlet for this gang. . . . See you at the tournament.

DEL MONTE CRICKET CLUB

The Del Monte Cricket Club held its first meeting Monday at the home of Alex Merrivale. Officers elected were G. C. Dear, captain, and Victor Mantilla, vice captain, and Alex Merivale, secretary.

Arrangements for the coming season were discussed as well as the shortage of man power. The group wants to find people who are interested in playing cricket, especially those who have had experience with the game.

The first practice will take place April 1, time and place to be announced later.

LET'S EXAMINE THE FACTS!

100% of the employees do NOT WANT to join the union—The union wants a "union shop," which would require all employees to become members of the union and remain members in good standing.

The management of Kip's believes in the right of self-determination by its employees.

The management met with the union representative on several occasions and a form of contract was worked out that did not leave the parties far apart, except that it required a "union shop."

The union was offered the opportunity to organize the employees;

The union was offered the opportunity to take part in an election to be run by the State Conciliation Board;

The union was offered the opportunity to take part in any impartial election.

The union did try to organize the employees, but refused to take part in any type of election.

However, an impartial, secret election was held in the City Hall, was presided over by the Mayor, the only other persons present being a reporter and two carpenters, members of another union. The results of this election were certified by the Mayor to be 100% of ALL employees against a union shop.

Kip's will continue to serve its customers thru employees who are free to determine for themselves what conditions of employment suit them best.

Ramsey Benson

Percival Ramsey Benson, who died at his Castro Lane home last Sunday afternoon, was one of the most prominent writers in the country the early quarter of this century. During the time that his column, Dexter and Sinster, was syndicated, he was called "one of the keenest writers of comic copy."

He was born in Minnesota on February 24, 1866, and graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1888. He began his career as a newspaper reporter at a salary of $14 a week and had his best training under James Edmund Scripps, the founder of the newspaper family. As a free lancer he contributed to many magazines, among them Youth's Companion, Black Cat, Aventure and Country Gentlemen. After being a staff writer on Puck for many years, he continued on the staff of the old humorous magazine, Life. His page of anecdotes and jingles appeared under the title, Bensonettes. He was widely praised for his "trenchant observations on current affairs—with a deeper philosophical meaning."

His four novels were A Lord Of Lands (Holt, 1908), Melchisedec (Holt, 1909), A Knight of Denim (Scribners, 1912) and Hill Country (Stokes, 1928). This last novel was awarded the $7500 prize which Forum Magazine joined the Frederick A. Stokes Publishing Company in offering for the best Americana of that year. It was hailed as a great document of the Ozarks, since it was a fictional study of the influence exerted by James J. Hill during the building of the Great Northern Railroad. The novel is unique in that the main character never appears, although his presence is strongly felt during the Swedish immigration and the beginning of farm labor troubles.

Ramsey Benson married Edna Mackey in Wishart, Missouri, in 1911, and they came to Carmel to make their home in 1940. From 1933 to 1940 they made their home in Ashland, Oregon. She has been active in church and literary circles here and has lately been acting as his literary agent. Besides his wife, he is survived by a nephew, Harold P. Benson of Perris, California.

Services were held at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Wednesday afternoon. Paul's Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

BY BETH INGELS

Funniest incident of the week: Hildreth Hare (Mrs. Chet) taking her two younguns, Don and Lee, up to Strawberry Lake to see the snow! If she had stayed in Carmel a couple of hours longer on Wednesday she would practically have needed chains to get up Ocean Avenue. It was the first time snow had fallen visibly in Carmel since that day in 1932, when businessmen joined the kids in making snowballs and tossing them around. On Wednesday it was even too cold to do that. Interesting, however, were the pairs of wet shoes lined up in front of the fireplace in the Pine Inn cocktail lounge, when those attending the first of the spring series of fashion shows got their tootsies wet and found it necessary to dry out before braving the snow, hail, sleet and rain.

Snowfall was heavy enough in the Valley to collect on trees and in more than one case to cause the limbs from some of the larger sycamores to crack. Inasmuch as the snow was the chief topic of conversation heard around town, Bert Heron came in to say that one time about 30 years ago he awoke to find the Carmel pines looking like Christmas cards. He hurried up to his beloved Forest Theater and found that the set for Arms and the Man was white-covered and beautiful. Incidentally, he was wearing a picturesque and rather ancient hat on Wednesday and related that he had met George Seideneck on the street. George said, "Why, that's my hat you are wearing." Bert replied that it certainly was not and that he had had it in his possession for at least 20 years. George said that he had purchased it about 25 years ago in Denver and when Bert took a surreptious peek at the label he found that it was from—Denver. Then he remembered that one time he had borrowed the hat from George to use in one of the plays he was directing at the Forest Theater and liked it so much that he had conviently failed to return it to its owner. Upshot of the whole matter is that Bert is still wearing the hat.

For those who do not have Brownies in their household, one is reminded that one of the projects for which they receive awards is that of bed-making. Al Fry, manager of La Playa, offered the services of one of the maids there who would instruct the little girls in this necessary chore. One of the floors of the hotel was turned over to the maid and her little charges and they were all busy learning the expert techinque. Meanwhile, guests returning from uptown learned to their dismay that they were not allowed in their rooms. They were told why, and, instead of becoming annoyed, they cooperated wholeheartedly and even assisted the junior Girl Scouts in carrying out their project. Things like that are good to hear.

Bob Spencer, local chairman of the annual Red Cross campaign, needs block workers and needs them badly. It seems that an awful lot of people are too busy to help gather funds for this most important of all relief organizations. If anyone wishes to help in just a little way, please call Bob and offer some assistance. In many cases you will be asked to contact only those people living in your own block.

Supervisors Asked To Consider Smog Abatement Ordinance

the situation is bound to become more and more acute.

"It was explained that often the smoke drifts out to sea and is returned to the land area with incoming fog, creating a peculiar yellow smog condition.

"It may be that the Board of Supervisors will deem it advisable to consider the passage of a smoke nuisance ordinance in order to avoid the development of smog conditions in the county and the Planning Commission suggests that the matter be considered from that point of view and suitable action taken.

Yours very truly,
PETER MAWDSLEY,
City Clerk."

Public Welcome To Mackey Swan Concert Saturday

Mackey Swan, baritone, will sing in concert at Carmel High School Auditorium Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. A former pupil of Madame Amelita Galli Curci, Mr. Swan has recently opened a studio in Carmel. He will be accompanied by his wife, Lyn Swan, who is a former student of Homer Samuels, the husband of Mme. Galli Curi.

The program will include Ombra Mai Fu by Handel, Nina by Pergolesi, Venetian Vision by Brogi, the aria Nemico Della Pattia from Andrea Chenier by Girodana, Allerseelen by Strauss, Gesang Weyla's by Wolf, Zueignung by Strauss, an aria from Wagner's Tannhauser entitled O; Du Mein Holder Absendstern, Beau Soir by Debussy, Les Berceaux by Faure, I Wept, Beloved by Hue, Music When Soft Voices Die by Ruger, Sweet Little Jesus Boy by MacGimsey and dedication by Franz.

The concert is free and all music lovers are invited to attend. It is being presented under the auspices of the Musical Art Club.

Prie-Dieu Will Be Accepted Sunday At Memorial Services

Recognition will be given on Sunday to a group of members of the Church of the Wayfarer whose deaths have occurred during the past two years. During the identical services on Sunday at 9:30 and 11 a.m. a prie-dieu or kneeling desk will be accepted for the use of worshippers, honoring those members who have died.

This prie-dieu, designed by Ivor L. Prosser and executed in hand-carved walnut, is in spirit of the gothic walnut paneling with which

Lions All Set For Third Big Fashion Show

The Carmel Lions Club is putting on its third annual Fashion and Variety Show at the Mission Ranch Club Saturday, March 10, at 8 p.m. The big fashion show will include gowns and models from the following shops: Putnam and Raggett, Balzer's Department Store, Helen Carter, The Hour Glass, The Cinderella Shop, The Country Shop, Gladys McCloud, The Silver Thimble, Kramer's, Robert Kirk, Ltd., Bransons', Carmel Dress Shop, and Rose Brown. Also shown will be acessories from the Village Shoe Tree, The Guild Shop, The Stocking Shop and O'Keeffe's.

Rose Brown, who is opening a shop in Pine Inn next week, will be the commentator for the fashion show, and Arthur Murray will present a special dance number while the show is going on.

The Variety show will feature the Famous Lions Club Sextet who will do a sad story of the South Pacific entitled No Women. Other variety acts include 5-year-old Jan Bruno, who appears on television shows in Los Angeles and San Francisco, playing the drums while Annie Luce sings and dances; Pat Sturdy, the "songbird of the phonograph"; and Carol Timbers and Jackie Briggs in a dance routine called Two Dancers and Their Dummy Makes Three.

General chairman for the gala affair is Lloyd Weer, and Mark Raggett is the chairman of the Fashion. Tickets, which cost $1.80, can be obtained from Lions Club members at Putnam and Raggett's, at Balzer's or at the door.

Following the Fashion and Variety show, there will be dancing to the music of Maurice Stoney's orchestra. Coffee and doughnuts will be served at midnight, and dancing will continue until 2 a.m.

The profits of the Fashion and Variety Show will go to the Carmel Lions Club Youth Activity Fund.

Drainage Problems To Be Discussed At Mass Meeting

Carmel's drainage problems were discussed Wednesday afternoon at an executive session of the Carmel City Council and Planning Commission and it was indicated that a mass public meeting will be scheduled soon and will be held in about a month.

The firm of Neill and Bestor has made a survey of the situation, and methods of easing the problems were discussed. These will be presented to the public at large at the meeting.

POINT LOBOS RESERVE

Call it hedge-nettle or wood mint it is still the delicate, mottled-purple blossoms arranged in a spike as its scientific name Stachys implies.

This member of the mint family is characteristically square-stemmed and aromatic, though not as pleasantly so as the "real" peppermint. Rather small, short, "hairs" stick out all over this square stem to which are attached rough, wrinkled leaves arranged opposite one another. These leaves, from 2 to 3 inches long and an inch and a half to 2 inches wide (depending on their position on the stem), are also "hairy" like the stem.

Atop the stem are arranged the flowers that the bumble bee loves so much and well do I recall the Eastern species of this plant adorned by a fat, yellow and black, "bumbler." Individually, the flower is pale lavender, touched with rose and speckled with varying shades of the same color. There is a drooping lower lip and a smaller, hooded upper pedal.

The plant rises erect from moist places, mostly, but it has been noticed in several different situations, from under a cypress to amongst the sage brush. It is usually seen growing in clumps and I cannot remember seeing a lonesome plant. The species found at Point Lobos may reach a height of several feet, though 1 foot is probably about average.

Carmel Woman's Club Plans Rummage Sale For April 9

The Carmel Woman's Club plans to hold a spring rummage sale on April 9 from 9 until 4 it was announced at the club's last meeting by Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, president. The rummage sale will include everything in the way of white elephants as well as clothing, books, pictures, jewelry, household articles and furniture, plants and cut flowers. Prices will be as low as any bargain basement.

Mrs. James Burgess, general chairman of the rummage sale, announced her committee of co-chairmen to be Mrs. L. C. Miller, Mrs. Jack Belangee and Mrs. Annie Vaughan.

Mrs. L. C. Miller will be in charge of white elephant sales; Mrs. D. F. Stoffer, household articles; Mrs. F. H. Knudsen, hats, shoes and gloves; Mrs. Henry I. Raymond, blouses and sweaters; Mrs. Katherine Lansdowne, new bazaar; Mrs. George Baxter, children's clothing; Miss Bess French, chances; Mrs. Ethel M. Taggart, plants; Mrs. Ella C. Harris, workers' lunch; Mrs. Barbara Murphy, sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Nora Law, publicity.

Members who want to donate articles should call Mrs. James Burgess at 7-7736 or Mrs. L. C. Miller at 7-4844.

President Mrs. F. E. Vaughan presided over Monday's meeting in the absence of Garden Chairman Mrs. E. Bingaman, and introduced Mr. and Mrs. Noel T. Arnold of Pebble Beach who showed colored films of flowers accompanied by sound effects and comments. Of special interest to the audience was a picture of the Carmel Woman's Club flower show of 1950. Outstanding exhibits in color were Mrs. Pattee's roses, a bridal table arranged by Mrs. Paul McKinstry, a table by Mrs. E. H. Tickle, a Hawaiian exhibit by Mr. and Mrs. William Eklund and an unusual shadow box arrangement by Mrs. Charles L. De Vault. There was also a slide of a decorated elephant by Mrs. Cooksley, of a patio-shrine set up by Mrs. Fenton Gribsby and of figurines by Alberta Dreyer.

There were also scenes from the Pasadena Flower Shop and the Oakland Garden Show, as well as the Arnolds' gardens in Pebble Beach. The pictures, both stills and movies, were taken by Mr. Arnold.

Following the pictures, tea was served by Mrs. L. C. Miller, hostess for the Garden Section, who was assisted by Mrs. William L. Askew and Mrs. Ella C. Harris.

Miss Ruth D. Radcliff and Mrs. Dale G. Hollenbeck poured.

The next meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club will feature a program of dramatic news and reviews by Mrs. Larry Johns of New York at 2 p.m. March 5.

Singing in the Shower

Shower-singing is an old American custom which proves that all the good singers are not in the Met, or crooning over the air waves, and shows that Americans are a jolly people, come what may. . . Singing in the shower might also be considered as a spontaneous burst of gratitude for that inestimable gift of Nature (and water works men)—running water.

The water works men of the United States provide the best water of any systems in the world—and deliver it to consumers, just where and just when they want it, at the lowest possible cost.

California Water & Telephone Company

Save Your Jobless Pay!

BY ROSS GRAHAM

(Ed. Note: This is the ninth of a series of 10 special articles.)

Every honest worker in California who wants to work, and does, and who does not think the government owes him a living, should be an enthusiastic supporter of the move to end the "lag-quarter" chiseling against the California unemployment insurance funds.

While only an estimate of the unemployment insurance payments in this category can be made, a conservative estimate is that at least $25,000 a year is drained from the fund.

Coupled with the $25,000,000 a year, or more (again a conservative estimate) that is illegally being taken from the fund by those who "voluntarily quit" their jobs and those who, having voluntarily quit or being honestly out of a job, do not try to get another job but evade a new job by subterfuge, a total of at least $50,000,000 a year is being raided from the unemployment insurance fund.

It is estimated that this improper drain, together with other loopholes, will remove possibly $75,000,000 from the fund for the year 1950 and that the deficit in the fund, for 1950 will be about $23,000,000.

This is important because it will inevitably lead to higher payroll taxes on employers, who pay the entire cost of unemployment insurance and might even lower the fund to the point where payments of unemployment insurance to workers out of jobs will be stopped.

Under the present law, all payments can be stopped.

The remedy to stop the "lag-quarter" chiseling is quite simple, but before explaining this remedy, which will be given the legislature for action in the 1951 session, the operation of this racket will be explained.

Unemployment insurance claims are based on the worker's earnings for the first four quarters of the last six-quarters-years, or three-month periods.

A worker at $50 a week would earn $2,600 if he worked a full year. This would entitle him to the maximum unemployment insurance payment of $650 at the rate of $25 a week for 26 weeks.

If his job continued another six months, he would earn $1,300 additional.

Upon stopping work, he could file for benefits, and using the first four quarters of the six quarters he has worked, he would get $25 a week for 26 weeks, or six months.

He would have to support himself some way, other than by steady work, during the next six months.

But on the first anniversary of his claim, he could file another claim, using the fifth and sixth quarters of his earning period, which were left over when he filed his first claim.

The $1,300 he earned in those two quarters would be enough to get him $25 a week for 26 more weeks.

So, he could loaf at the expense of his fellow-workmen and the state unemployment insurance fund, for a total of 12 out of 18 months.

The total of $1,300 in unemployment insurance payments he would receive would be charged against his former employer's reserve fund to the extent of $900 and the remaining $400 would be charged against the general state unemployment insurance reserve fund.

Of course, the employer also pays the $400 or at least, together with all other employers in California, he pays it.

And of course it reduces the fund by $1,300.

The remedy would be an amendment to the effect that all excess wages over those used in the computation of the first unemployment payments award, shall not be used in the computation of subsequent awards, until the claimant has had intervening employment and earned therein the wage credits that are necessary for an original

SUMMER CHILD

The summer child
Steeped in the indeterminate morning,
Of no remembered sun-dawn,
Nor with prevision of the dark-rimmed moon,
Knows only the NOW, luminous in the slant-wing butterfly,
Or in the shadowy clover hugging the quilted lawn.
Slow in the wide periphery of time
The minutes pend: an age to age,
Linked to no tides.

The child, himself the indeterminate present
Of unremembered pasts,
Of futures unforetold,
In these arrested moments
Stirs to prophetic glimpse:
Of endless waves extending to no shores,
Of time unrolling from a muted drum,
And skies receding past illimitable stars.

—FLORA J. ARNSTEIN.

BELOW THE DAM

These hidden pools
where night birds come and summer moons are split by floating logs, where bullfrogs bellow mellowly beneath the surface . . .

The aromatic hills above
exude the grainy fragrance of a million pollen-heavy buckwheat blooms;
the valley opens out below.

Across its depth of sweet alfalfa muffled echoes softly beckon winds that flow along this country all night long,
like dark, uncharted streams,
that feed these mountain-sides of honey-bearing plants,
and carry these night birds,
and fill these hidden pools.

—D. L. EMBLEN.

SEA SONG

There is a silver singing
That haunts the ocean's tunes,
A song like chanteys ringing
Across the weathered dunes.

There is a silver singing
Spins out across the rocks,
Where sea birds, landward winging,
Wheel in snowy flocks.

There is a silver singing
Across the rolling sands,
Where eerie winds come bringing
Their songs of other lands.

—GRACE SAYRE.

New Volumes . . .

Those who believe that history is a dry and boring subject will be pleasantly reawakened if they bother to look into The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody by the late Will Cuppy. The volume, published by Henry Holt and Company, illustrated by William Steig, was made available for this review by the Wells Book Shop.

An introduction is written by Fred Feldkamp who, after Cuppy's death in 1949, inherited the job of assembling his material for publication, and in it he explains the way in which he gathered his information, filed it and later worked it into shape.

Before ever writing even one line of any one subject, he would read every book available, and then make notes on cards for filing. He had more than 200 small metal file boxes in his study with information on countless thousands of different subjects. Cuppy had worked 16 years on this particular volume and critics are usually agreed that it is his best. In The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody, he sums up his conclusions on such things as birds, reptiles, fish and mamals, but, primarily his interest is in people —and, preferably, people born before the eighteenth century.

His footnotes on pieces about such people as Catherine the Great, Columbus, and countless others, are worth the price of the book themselves. Famous characters in history are viewed through Cuppy's eyes which are, in turn, humorous, wise and caustic.

Chapter headlines are: It Seems There Were Two Egyptians; Cheops or Khufu and Hatshepsut; Ancient Greeks and Worse; Pericles, Alexander The Great, Hannibal, Cleopatra and Nero; Strange Bedfollows: Attila The Hun, Charlemagne, Lady Godiva, Lucrezia Borgia, Philip The Sap; A Few Greats: Louis XIV, Madam Du Barry, Peter The Great, Catherine The Great, Frederick The Great; Merrie England: William The Conqueror, Henry VIII, Elizabeth, George III; Now We're Getting Somewhere: Lief The Lucky, Christopher Columbus, Montezuma, Captain John Smith, Miles Standish; They All Had Their Fun: Some Royal Pranks and Some Royal Stomachs.

Take a look at a passage from this last chapter on stomachs: "Royalties, naturally, do not yell and scream for their favorite foods when out in company, so it's not easy to chart their gastronomic adyentures. But now and again news of the royal preferences leaked out.

"Strawberries are high on the provision list of British royalty, as they should be in every well-regulated dynasty. Queen Victoria was a strawberry fan of the first order. She told somebody in 1875 that the strawberries were not as good as they were when she was a girl. She likewise declared that the violets did not smell as sweet, and she attributed this all to the wicked gardeners. She said, also, they had spoiled the strawberries from the same causes. She may have been right at that since old ladies still say the same thing.

"Queen Victoria had no gastronomic passions, unless it was for strawberries and asparagus. It would be fair to state that during her reign of 64 years her intake included a little of everything. Those were the days of huge and varied collations, and she didn't starve. One scarcely pictures her as being impetuous at table yet history relates that she tucked her napkin under her chin—she was built that way.

"Later on, Queen Victoria ate with more composure and was not so much amused. There is, to be sure, the story of the strictly trained little girl who, observing Victoria pick up a stalk of asparagus with her fingers and proceed to deal with it according to the sword-swallowing technique, cried: 'Oh, piggie, piggie!' Whereat the Queen is said to have laughed and laughed. What else could she do?

"The early Georges came straight from Han-

Spring Fashion Show

Despite the pouring rain followed by unprecedented snow in Carmel, the dining room of the Pine Inn was filled with eager spectators at the first Spring Fashion show put on by the Gail Coupe Shop Wednesday. The charming models, dressed inappropriately in the most sheer, the most gossamer, the most brief and topless of spring wear, concealed their shivers with admirable self-control as they tripped through the dining room, pausing at the various tables, while Mr. Coupe played barker at the microphone.

Most of them, fortunately, were accoutred with jackets and coats on top of their spring prints and cottons, and so did not have to remain exposed very long when they removed them briefly to display the gowns. . . . One model, however, Barbara May, appeared in a bathing suit. It was strapless, it was beautiful, it was made of spun cotton and very, very brief, and although Barbara did not look cold, she must have been very cold.

Spring fashions, by the way, at least according to what the Gail Coupe Shop displayed Wednesday, are the best we have seen in many a year. There is accent on capes and accent on jackets which look like capes (but have sleeves) and accent on the ever-popular sundress but in smart colors such as navy with little bolero jackets. The costume is appropriate, therefore, not only for sun-bathing but for dashing about town or going out to lunch.

There were stunning siuts by Lily Anne, and classic coats—also by Lily Anne. One of the coats was in navy gabardine, with big sleeves—the sort of thing that might have been considered extreme a year or two ago, but no longer. Lines priceless, princess-like (and expensive looking). Another new note for spring that would carry one through summer was a fleecy white shag coat, very long-haired, with a high collar.

In dresses, in addition to the charming cotton sun-dresses, there were stunning pine silk prints (including a long-sleeved one in aqua, beautiful tailored) and one of the most charming cocktail dresses we have anywhere. Latter was in pure silk organdy with an overlay of metallic gold. But it didn't look like organdy, although it was sheer as gossamer. It looked like some utterly new material, made, perhaps of butterfly wings. Shimmering gold and oh so light; and the skirt like a ballet-skirt, full, but not long.

New length by the way is one of the fashion-notes emphasized. Nothing is being worn very long this year; new length is just a few inches below the knee. Also in organdy was a black and white print with a sheer, sheer bolero jacket . . . transparent, black probably chiffon. Prices, by the way, were amazingly reasonable, except on some of the Lily Anne suits.

The models, in addition to the blonde and lissome Barbara May, were Sirkka Minyard, Vera Watts, Mrs. Jack Dalzel and Niki Newkirk. However, they all looked so very stunning in the various outfits that they created the impression of being many more girls than they actually were. Contrast in dress, in coat, in color, in style, and with different accessories—sometimes hats, long white gloves, etc.—made their appearance so strikingly different at times, that the spectator was often deceived into thinking there were 10 or 15 models instead of five.

The next Spring Fashion Show at the Pine Inn will be Wednesday, March 7, when the Cinderella Shop will display its collection of spring dresses, coats and suits.

Retired Officers' Monthly Dinner

The Retired Officers of the Monterey Peninsula area are meeting at the Naval Line School March 6 for their regular monthly dinner. Brig. Gen. G. D. Wahl, Brig. Gen. J. S. Winn and Capt. H. M. Gleason are the committee in charge of arrangements.

Commencing at 6:30 p.m., refreshments will be served. All retired personnel living in this area are welcome to attend, and those who desire to attend the dinner should make their reservations early as possible, either by returning the invitation card mailed to them or by phoning 2-5811 and asking for the club officer. Invitation cards have been sent to those who usually attend the monthly functions, but other officers are also welcome to come.

The limited distribution of invitation cards is purely a matter of economy.

The meeting at the Naval Line School is being held on a date on which the club dining room would ordinarily be closed.

It is hoped that the attendance will be large at this dinner meeting as an election is to be held of officers to serve for the next 12 months. The nominating committee, which consists of Col. J. W. Sherwood, Brig. Gen. W. H. Hobson and Capt. Gleason, will make their recommendations at that time.

Away And Back Again

Marie Short went up to visit her sister in Palo Alto for a few days this week but returned Thursday.

Dici Douglas Wed

On Sunday afternoon, February 25, at 3 o'clock, Dici Douglas was married to Arthur Harber at the Church of the Wayfarer. Fillmore Gray performed the ceremony which was attended by a host of friends and relatives.

Dici, who is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas A. McGlynn, Jr., of Pebble Beach, was given in marriage by her step-father, Thomas McGlynn, Jr. The Church was charmingly decorated with masses of white stock and tall, lighted tapers. The beautifully hand-carved kneeling bench was used for the first time during the ceremony.

Mrs. James Griffin played the organ, and Mr. Griffin was the soloist. He sang I Love You Truly, Because, and The Lord's Prayer while the assembled crowd awaited the entrance of the bridal party.

Dici made a beautiful bride in her gown of white slipper satin with a Peter Pan collar, which was edged in seed pearls, with a tight fitting bodice, buttoned to the waist, and full skirt ending in a long train over great hoops. Her veil, which was of finger-tip length, was edged in chantilly lace, and she wore a coronet of chantilly lace kept in place by a heart-shaped tiara in her hair. In her hands she carried a white Prayer book with clusters of white bouvardia and lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Georgann Bell, appeared in an off-the-shoulderd gown of pink satin which had a full skirt over hoops, and carried deep pink carnations forming an old-fashioned bouquet. Her gloves, of shimmering pink satin, matched her gown.

Victor Harber, brother of the groom, was best man, and Ted Schoenhair and Tom Hanley seated the guests.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McGlynn, chose a suit of spring yellow with black and violet accessories, including a violet hat, violet gloves and a corsage of violets pinned to her lapel.

Mrs. Floyd E. Harber, mother of the groom, appeared in a tailored suit of navy with matching navy accessories, and her flowers were pink camellias.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by over 150 guests was held at the Carmel Youth Center, the first wedding reception to be held there, and the rooms were festively decorated with calla lilies and golden daffodils. The bride's table, which was covered with a lace cloth, was decorated with bouvardia and tapers around the huge, six-tiered fruit wedding cake.

After the bride cut the first slice, Miss June Updike cut the rest of the cake for the assembled guests.

Fruit punch was served by the groom's sister, Miss Louise Harber, and Dennis Johnson, a charter member of the Youth Center. Fred Godwin, founder of the Youth Center, was there to add his congratulations to the occasion.

The bride chose a navy blue tailored suit with pink accessories for her going-away outfit, and the newlyweds departed for a brief honeymoon in Northern California. When they return, they will make their home in Carmel.

The new Mrs. Harber is a graduate of Carmel High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College. The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harber of Carmel, is also a Carmel High graduate and went to Monterey Peninsula College. The groom has two brothers, Victor and David, and a sister, Louise, all of Carmel. Dici's sister is Mrs. Richard Hendricks of Carmel, and her brother, Thomas Lee McGlynn of Pebble Beach.

Out-of-town guests who attended the widding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. E. McGlynn of San Diego, the bride's uncle and aunt, with their son, Jimmy and daughter, Mrs. Clyde Stahl, and their grandson, Stephen Stahl. From Fresno came the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Edquist for the gala occasion.

U.S.O. Carnival

The second annual St. Patricks night Carnival will be held at the U.S.O. in Monterey Friday night, March 16, it was announced this week. Civic clubs and merchants of Carmel will take part in the gala affair which is for the purpose of raising funds with which to entertain the 14,000 servicemen on the Peninsula who attend events at the U.S.O. every month. Their entertainment includes dances, movies, games, suppers, holiday dinners, etc.

Chairman of the Carmel Committee for the Carnival is Mrs. Gladys Johnston, and members of the Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs will assist her in organizing the affair.

Parkers Holding Clam-Bake

Dr. and Mrs. G. Ridgeley Parker are holding a big clam and mussel bake Sunday at their home at Dolores and Sixth for members of the Carmel Sportsman's Association. About forty members and wives are expected.

The men will go out and get the clams and mussels at low tide tomorrow, and the women will do most of the cooking. The men however, will take care of the mussels, and plan to steam them over a big barbecue pit Sunday, while the women bake clams and make clam chowder.

The grand affair will start at 1 o'clock.

Farewell Party For Feeleys

Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams at Carmel Highlands Saturday night to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Feeley. The Feeleys, who have been living in the Highlands for the past year while Mr. Feeley was on his sabbatical from Bennington, have new returned to Bennington where Mr. Feeley is in charge of the art-department.

Among the neighbors who turned up at Williams' and enjoyed the magnificent spaghetti dinner prepared by Joe Balisteri were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Millard, Mrs. T. M. Criley, Mrs. Yvonne Winslow, Garth Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Duveneck and Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner, Marie Short and James Kenney. Down from Palo Alto for the occasion were Prof Webster who is the head of the physics department at Stanford; Mrs. Feeley's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Felsovani; and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Dana (she is the sister of Francis Duveneck). And from San Francisco were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gordon. Mr. Gordon is in charge of the newsroom at KNBC.

Benefit For Women Voters

The Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters is holding a benefit performance Monday, March 5, at the Carmel Hill Theater of the Swedish version of Dostoevski's Crime and Punishment. The performance, which will start at 8:30, is by courtesy of the Carmel Hill Theater management.

Crime and Punishment is the story of a young Russian intellectual of the 19th century who murders a woman whom he considers to be useless, under the impression that by this action he will achieve his own resurrection, but suffers untold tortures of guilt.

Tickets may be obtained either at the box office Monday night or by calling Mrs. George Fuhrman at 5-4305. Mrs. Fuhrman is chairman of the League's Finance Drive. Tickets are $1.00 each.

Exciting news! A spectacular new shop, ROSE BROWN, CUSTOM KNITS AND ACCESSORIES, will open on Wednesday, March 7, in the Pine Inn Lobby, presenting original creations by Miss Brown and the distinguished group of American and French artists who design exclusively for her. Like the famous Paris boutiques, this is a shop where you can find everything and have anything made, where your flights of fancy will be realized in wool or leather, where you may have things created for you alone or choose from a glittering array. Remarkable handwrought jewelry by a famous silversmith who has inspiration on his travels around the world, fine knits and irridescent stoles, conversation piece cocktail skirts, appliqued with gold caged parrots or bejeweled blackamoors, glittering with sequins and jet, soft suede hats and beautifully made belts and bags are some of the things you'll find only at this shop. Rose Brown will design wonderful costumes especially for you and delight you with her fabulous color sense and her talent for interpreting fashion in beautiful and unusual materials.

The new VILLAGE FLOWERS, Dolores near the Potsoffice, is one of the prettiest shops in town! Lorraine Hanssens has arranged it with an artist's touch. This week she has exquisite English primroses, in Degas pastel colors, at only $1 for a dozen plant, $4 a flat. Charm for your house and garden at VILLAGE FLOWERS.

On the Peninsula, the best maternity fashions are to be found exclusively at DOROTHY MEREDITH'S CLOTHES CORNER, 104 Webster St. opposite the Monterey Postoffice. Miss Meredith has assembled a great collection of beautiful clothes skillfully designed, for the expectant mother. Everything in the shop reflects her keen fashion sense and everything is moderately priced. Imported Irish linen suits in delectable colors are $29.95. A chinese dress, the sleeveless jacket gold printed, in deep green cotton is $12.95. You'll find crisp prints with matching coats, brilliant turqoise or lemon jackets, jet buttoned over slim black skirts, and many other gay and charming costumes, at DOROTHY MEREDITH'S CLOTHES CORNER.

That lovely new garden shop called THE GREEN THUMB, 591 Hartnell Street near the Monterey post office, presents a small miracle. Watercress to grow in your kitchen. A package containing enough cress seed for several plantings and pure white planting medium is 25 cents. Simply sprinkle in a bowl, add water and watch it grow. In a week or so you'll have fresh cress ready for the table!

For a tranquil hour by a blazing fire, visit THE VILLAGE BOOK SHOP, on Ocean Ave. Miss Griffin has just received a tremendous shipment of new books. Among them; Adventure into Poetry, by Flora J. Arnstein, just published by the Stanford University Press; the new World Almanac; Old Herbaceous, a novel by Reginald Arkell, described by A. J. Cronin as "Enchanting, fresh as an English spring, fragrant as sweet lavender," and two books about one of the most fascinating figures of our time, F. Scott Fitzgerald. A biography, The Far Side of Paradise, by Arthur Mizener and a novel, The Disenchanted, by Budd Schulberg.

Perfect Invitation to Spring! This week's sweater story at HARRIET DUNCAN, 6th and Lincoln. Soft Caledonia cashmeres bloom in flower tints, Sweet Pea, Daffodil, Gentian and Fashion Rose. The pull-overs are $16.95, cardigans, $19.95, try contrasting them, these colors combine as perfectly as a bouquet of spring flowers. Heathertints, in botany wools imported from Scotland are exclusive with HARRIET DUNCAN'S and, new marvel, Nylon Tricot sweaters have appeared, in prismatic colors like the reflections of pale jewels.

One of the most fascintaing things to do in Carmel! Visit O'KEEFFE'S, on Dolores Street, and see the many beautiful things Mr. O'Keeffe has collected for you. Chinese Bisque horses, gaily decked in bells, exquisite white cardinals, in porcelain by the English artist, Dorothy Doughty, shimmering green and rose jade from China, a silk finished rosewood Chinese table, very low and elegant. New acquisitions in the china room include a group of rare Meissen, beautiful pieces in the earliest onion blossom pattern and a complete service of Royal Copenhagen in the Frisjanbourg pattern. Among the many lovely things at low prices you'll always find at O'KEEFFE'S are large Tole trays and bowls, in classic designs, priced at $5.00.

At last! The culinary delicacies of the Mediterranean countries are available in Carmel. THE MEDITERRANEAN GROCERY AND FISH MARKET has just opened on San Carlos and 6th, offering a wonderful selection of imported and domestic foods in a charming, Italianate setting. Coffee, American and Italian style, is freshly roasted and ground to order. Rows of fine wines and vermouths and festoons of salami and all sorts of sausages. Enormous Swiss cheese, exciting Italian ones, including Parmigiano, which you may have grated, dried mushrooms, herbs and spices, stuffed olives, imported olive oil, Perugina chocolates and caramels are just a few of the special delights at THE MEDITERRANNEAN MARKET. Staples include fine fruit and vegetables and the fish market is stocked with fresh fish every morning.

THE GARDENER'S FRIEND, 5th between San Carlos and Mission, has a magic mix called Veg-Moss for adding new life to lawns and preparing beds for planting. A wonderful soil builder, Veg-Moss is made of composted vegetables and peat moss, contain 2% active nitrogen, is odorless and comes in nice reusable plastic sacks.

For effortless entertaining, RIKKI'S KITCHEN, Mission near 6th, will prepare a delicious meal for 6 or more people at very low cost. Rikki's hot casseroles and large home made fruit pies are famous, and for clubs, group picnics, etc. she'll whip up anything from sandwiches to a banquet Call Rikki at 7-4398.

Admirers of hooked rugs will adore the large group of all wool, handhooked rugs, imported from China, now on sale at special prices, at HOLMAN'S third floor rug department. These rugs are gracefully designed, with wreaths of roses, leaves and lattices in delicate blues, lilacs, greens and pinks, and they feel delightfully thick and soft. Oval and square, prices start at $6.95 for size 2x3. 2x4 is $9.95, 3x5 $17.95 and a magnificent 9x12 is $109.50.

Color Films On Scandinavia To Be Shown Here Sunday

A new all-color travelogue of Scandinavia will be given by Curtis F. Nagel, winner of the coveted Academy Award for his color film Enchanted Toy Shop, when he appears in person at the Sunset School on Sunday evening at 8:30.

Nagel is one of America's foremost photographers and producers. For fifteen years he has roamed the world making his magnificent Colorlogues. His pictures are unmatched for color and beauty.

Alice Seckels of Carmel in cooperation with the San Francisco Town Hall is presenting Nagel as the first of several travelogues to follow this Spring. He has proved to be an outstanding platform speaker whose all-color pictures have attracted sold out houses wherever he is known. They are made and narrated in the same professional Hollywood manner as his theatrical films. He has appeared in hundreds of cities throughout the world.

Tickets are on sale at the Browse Around Music Shop in Carmel and Abinante's, Monterey and at the door of the hall Sunday evening after seven o'clock.

Stock Company Will Present Room Service Tonight At San Carlos

Pacific Stock Company, recent producers of Somerset Maugham's Rain in Carmel and at the Wharf Theatre as well as on the road, are opening tonight with Room Service, a comedy in "three unlikely acts" at the San Carlos Hotel Penthouse Circle Theatre. There will be four performances altogether on March 2, 3, 9 and 10.

Directors Thomas D. Brock and Robert Carson are introducing theater-in-the-round to the peninsula, which has been a great hit all over the country in the last year or two but has not previously been tried here.

An art exhibit will be on view in the Penthouse Circle Theatre during the nights of the performance. Artists who are showing are Patricia Cunningham, John Cunningham, Richard Lofton, Sam Colburn, Sam Harris, Virginia Blair, Elwood Graham, Barbara Stevenson, Jean Varda, Gerald Wassermann and Erica Franke.

The play begins at 8:30.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press, Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Woman's Club To Sponsor Quaker Clothing Drive

The Carmel Woman's Club announces that it is sponsoring a drive for new and used clothing to be sent to the needy of the world through the American Friends Service Committee, the Quaker Relief Agency.

The drive commences Monday, March 5, and runs through March 19. There will be a collection box in front of the Carmel postoffice.

Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, president of the Carmel Woman's Club, is honorary chairman of the drive, and Mrs. M. L. Hooper is the co-chairman. The committee consists of Mrs. Stanley Pedder, Mrs. Edward Kuster, Mrs. Paul Low, Mrs. Howard Clark, and Mrs. Edna Lockwood.

All kinds of usable clothing, cleaned and in good condition, will be gratefully accepted. Sensible shoes are needed, also, as well as sewing needs, new combs, brushes, toothbrushes and soap. These articles are very difficult to obtain in needy countries, and thousands of people are without them.

Anyone who wishes to contribute to the drive and desires that articles be picked up are asked to telephone Carmel 7-7706.

Peggy Stebbins Entertained

Peggy Stebbins entertained a few friends at her house on Monte Verde street Friday afternoon. Those who attended were Rev. and Mrs. Alfred B. Seccombe, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Aurner, Glenn Clairmonte, Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, and Mrs. Philip Schneeberger.

Said Riza To Talk Tonight On Painting

Said Riza will talk tonight at the Carmel Art Association Galleries on Painting as a Language. The lecture is free, and will begin at 8 o'clock. However, as the seating capacity of the gallery is only 90, everyone who wishes to attend is warned to come early.

Mr. Riza, an instructor in Turkish at the Army Language School, is an authority on painting as well as language, and is himself a painter. He had a one-man show at the Blair Studios on the Wharf several months ago, and is one of the artists exhibiting with the New Group at Carmel Highlands to morrow afternoon.

Born in Turkey, he is a graduate of Cambridge and has become an American citizen.

claim for benefits.

With reference to the above illustration, under this reform amendment, it would be necessary for the claimant to get a new job and earn $300, the minimum wage credit entitling him to unemployment insurance benefits.

If he earned $300 he then could use the $1,300 left over from his first claim, and draw $25 a week for 26 weeks.

With present high wages, many could earn $300 in a very short time and still indulge in some chiseling, but this requirement for some honest work would reduce the chiseling greatly.

It also would be in strict accordance with the intent of the unemployment insurance law, namely, that it be used to help those who want to work, who try to get work and who are out of work through no fault of their own.

Unless these and other changes are made in the present unemployment insurance law, to protect the fund, there is grave danger that the system will break down.

That is why the state senators and assemblymen should be alerted by the people in their districts to enact these amendments at the present session of the legislature.

The alternative will be discussed in the next installment.

over—the natural home and cradle of sauges, you might almost say—bringing with them strings of Leberwurst, Blutwurst, and other Wurste and Sauchishen of many kinds and conditions including, for all I know, the original Frankfurter itself; not to mention Schweinskopf, Specksuppe, miscellaneous pickled herrings, and assorted delicatessen.

"Aside from the wursts, the first three Georges left no great claims to feeding fame. George I died of acute indigestion, however, after gorging himself on melons while enroute to Hanover. He wasn't used to melons. George III's favorite meal was cold mutton and salad, plover's eggs, stewed peas and cherry tart."

These paragraphs will give you an idea of the pleasure and fun in store for you in this delightful book. Don't miss it!—B.I.

The Time Has Come . . .

By Kippy Stuart

It is a relief for some one to "tell me something" rather than to "ask me something." Today's mail brought a welcome communication from Colonel Philip Schneeberger which I will share with the readers of The Pine Cone. Colonel Schneeberger is an earnest gardener who takes time out to discover his plant pathology, and then do something about it. His bout with the vicious leaf-miners is news in the garden world, and his success in controlling the leaf-miner will be helpful to all of those gardeners who struggle with cinerarias.—K.S.

Col. Philip Schneeberger
P. O. Box 161
Carmel, California
February 24, 1951

Dear Kippy S.:

Last fall my cinerarias were in trouble and big. Their blaze of deep-toned glory was in a sad decline, their leaves fast becoming anaemic. As if governed by one impulse, they started taking on interesting lacy patterns on each leaf—interesting until the leaves yellowed and wilted. My Oriental gardener admitted frustration of a high order. The intriguing patterns had showed up in other floral paradises under his care, had not yielded to reason, and he had even torn out hundreds of plants by their roots.

I looked through the literature and got some good clues. Naturally you know that the difficulty was those pesky leaf-miners. Being somewhat of the high-domed type, I made a study of the life cycle of the little beasties, and with that study I believe I have a method of control. So I pass on to you something which is doubtless the oldest sort of stuff for one of your entymological enthusiasms.

The little brat starts out life as a minute, capsul-like white egg which you can just about make out against a dark background if you have had a good night's sleep. Soon he escapes from this in the form of a wee worm that burrows with impish cleverness a tunnel between layers of the leaf, eating his way with the appetite of a sophomore as he goes, and leaving those aforesaid patterns. And he grows as he eats his chlorophyll of vitamines, and when the glutton gets to be about a quarter-inch long and plenty fat, he slows down, builds him a water-proof cocoon about him, curls up and takes a sizable nap.

When our gluttonous little critter wakes up, lo, he finds himself a black wasp-like affair about an eighth-inch long and seems interested in gorging upon all the aphids in the neighborhood. But his joie de vivre goes beyond this, for he shortly makes the acquaintance of a she wasp-like critter and mating seems to be the order of the day. For soon she starts placing the tiny eggs where her progeny will have a plentious ration for their young lives.

I tried out a few dusts and sprays and finally hit upon Ortho Isotax Plant Spray with Lindane (no adv.), and have gotten results with a four-teaspoon to a gallon solution. It doesn't seem to do anything to the eggs or to the water-proof cocoon. But it does put the quietus upon the worms in their porous tunnels. After treatment the sickly plants take heart again, and although they lose their badly cut-up leaves, they soon put out healthy leaves and all seems well again with the gay cineraria world.

If the followers of your engaging column need assurance that their cinerarias are to have a bit more of a future life after they have been visited by the leaf-miners, you may wish to pass this on to them. Treatment of infected plants and removal of the lace-patterned leaves will give them another day of glory.

Kindest regards from Moongate.

Sincerely,
Col. Philip Schneeberger

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, March 4, will have for its subject "Christ Jesus." The Golden Text has been chosen from First John: "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him" (4:9).

Included in the citations comprising the sermon will be the following:

The Bible: "Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: Him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain: Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it" (Acts 2:22-24).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Christ-idea, or the Christ-man, rose higher to human view because of the crucifixion, and thus proved that Truth was the master of death" (p. 316).

Hansen's One Man Show To Open At Artists Guild On 7th

There will be a one-man show of paintings by Armin Hansein, Monterey marine and figure painter, at the Artists Guild of America from March 7 through March 29. The invitational prevue will be Tuesday evening, March 6, and paintings are shown from 1 until 6 p.m. daily.

Armin Hansen, a prominent member of the Carmel Art Association, has lived on the Monterey Peninsula since 1912. Educated at the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art in San Francisco and at the Royal Academy in Stuttgart, Germany, he also studied in Paris, Antwerp and Nieuwpoort.

He has exhibited at the Art Institute in Chicago; the Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia; the National Academy of Design in New York; the Cleveland Museum of Art; the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco; the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art, and many others. He has also exhibited at European salons, and has won numerous awards in painting, drawing and etching, both in the United States and in Europe.

Mr. Hansen is a member of the San Francisco Art Association, of the Society of Etchers Printmakers of California, of the Societe Royal Beaux Arts of Brussels, the Society of American Etchers, and is an Academician in the National Academy of Design.

His paintings have been seen at the Carmel Art Association Galleries over a period of many years although he has done most of his exhibiting elsewhere.

Thirty-seven oil paintings will be shown at the Artists Guild of America as well as a collection of etchings.

John S. Emens

John Scott Emens, 66, a resident of Carmel for the past six months, was found dead at his home Tuesday morning. Death was apparently due to natural causes.

Mr. Emens was born in China and came to the United States after the end of World War II. He and his wife were in concentration camps in China for a long period and his wife died there while imprisoned. He lived in Berkeley before coming to Carmel.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Mission Mortuary.

Joyce Steck

Joyce Lynette Steck died Wednesday in a local hospital following an illness of several months. She was 22 years of age.

A native of Los Angeles, she had resided here with her parents on San Mateo road for the past four years. She was a student at the University of California and would have graduated this year with the February class. She was a member of Alpha Delta Pi.

She was a graduate of Westridge School for Girls in Pasadena and attended the University of Colorado before enrolling at the University of California.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Steck of Carmel, and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Steck of Santa Paula.

Services will be held at the Turner Stevens Funeral home in Alhambra tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Paul's Funeral home was in charge of local arrangements.

Snow Falls Here For First Time Since 1932

Carmel's unusual weather continued to be even more than that, with snow falling in the business and residential district for the first time since 1932, and the Valley and coastal areas being heavily blanketed Wednesday afternoon.

Hundreds of people took to the Valley road late in the afternoon to see the beautiful sight, and those who drove over the Carmel-Pacific Grove cutoff reported that snow-laden pines were spectacular.

One accident was reported on the Valley road, when a car driven by Geraldine Lacey, 17, of Monterey, skidded and turned over near the Hatton Ranch. Miss Lacey and two occupants were not injured.

Motorists along the Salinas-Monterey road stopped to indulge in snow fights and, according to at least one traveler, constituted a menace to traffic.

Snowfall was extremely heavy on Mount Toro and Chew's Ridge above Jamesburg, pleasing cattlemen in those districts because of the assurance of extra fodder for livestock.
